record of local quality and quantity of ground water, chemical usage, and disposition and present and projected land use.
Regional*7 Provides same information as state for a specific ground water basin serving several local agencies.
Local Provides basic information to individual users.
statewide planning and provides assistance and grants to regional or local agencies preparing ground water management plans.
Prepares and implements specific basin management plans.
Prepares and
implements local ground water plans.
including prohibitions when required national standards have not been set, but based on national scientific assessment. Primary enforcement agency for state and federal standards and source control regulations.
Accepts state delegation for enforcement as appropriate, including standard setting source controls, class systems, and land use plans to reflect actual environmental conditions.
Enforces appropriate standards. Assists state or regional entities in specific local situations.
and continuing forum for public dialogue on goals, standards, control strategies, and investments.
Is primary focus of public process, including citizens, committees, working groups, and information gathering and dissemination.
Is primary contact with individual citizens.

°Each state's structure varies; ground water protection responsibilities may also vary; clear central state coordination is needed. ^Interstate Basin Agency: coordinates roles in several states where ground and related surface water problems exist.